

The Pleasanton Police Explorer Post provides an opportunity for young men and women to experience first hand how a police department works, provides positive teen activities through community involvement, and allows teens to explore what it takes to get started with a challenging career in law enforcement.

Explorers receive training in various aspects of law enforcement, participate as ride-a-long observers with officers on patrol, and develop self-confidence and leadership skills.

Explorers also serve their community by working at community events, helping search for lost or missing persons and assisting with other services provided by the police department when needed.
